A PARIS SCANDAL A Negro Coachman Stands Up for the Dignity of His Cloth.

[From Galignani's Messenger, Oct, 5.] A few days ago the Figaro related the adven-are of a young woman, demi-monde, lamous for er yellow hair, and a young Beigian nobleman, who had made her a present of a carriage and who had made her a present of a carriage and pair, driven by a negro. Suspecting the fidelity of his mistress, ne one day blackened his face and put on the servant's livery, with the idea of catching her tripping. The plan succeeded, as he lound that, on alighting, site joined a young man who was waiting for her. On her return, when she was about to enter the carriage, he gave her two sharp cuts across the face with his whip and then drove off, leaving her standing where she was. The epilogue of the story is amusing. The real coachman, on hearing of what had been done, thought his dignity compromised and addressed the following letter to his master:—

Mossigus LE Bakon-I am only a poor negro, but I should never have conducted myself on your seat as you have done, when using my name, my wig and my color. Nor should I ever have confided them to you if I had known what you intended to do with them.—I resign my place and bid you addeu.

The Beautiful Annual Control of the Control of th The Baron talks of paying the letter framed and hung up in the most prominent place in his apartment.

THE DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND AND THE CATHOLICA

London Telegraph of the 5th of October nakes the following important statement:-

wakes the following important statement:—
We received some days since an important communication to the effect that his Grace the Buke of Morthumberland had become a convert to the Roman Catholic laith. To test the accuracy of this statement we sent for information to Ainsuck, and learned from a telegraphic despatch that the rumor had no foundation in fact. In consequence, however, of a reiteration of the original assertion, we last night referred the report to one of the highest authorities of the Catholic Church in England, who, in answer to our inquiries, asserted his firm belief in the Duke's conversion, and added that his Grace was lately admitted into communion by the Bishop of Beverley.
